Dear Hiring Manager,

I hope this letter finds you well. I am writing to express my interest in the Research & Data Analyst job at your company. Over this past summer, I have participated in a similar role in Dublin, Ireland. From what I learned at this company I would be able to improve your company's output through my experience. I believe that you will find my prior experience and my educational background to be a strong fit for your organizational needs.

Over this summer I have been the head of a group of American interns at the company. I have used my Research & Data Analyst intern role to recommend improvements to social media, websites, and finance through my findings. The company I was working at needed me to complete market research on industries and competitor markets to improve our own strategies. I was able to present my findings to our CEO and recommend implementations to our current market strategy. I have also been a part of many teams in my other work experience so I would be able to fit in seamlessly to any environment I am in. This would allow me to use my co-worker's skills to my advantage. I have also been awarded as an MVP on my school's esports program because of my leadership and teamwork. I am also very open to learning and honing my skills with the help of others. I am very enthusiastic to learn and if given the right mentor and opportunity I will be able to thrive. Overall I think that it would be very beneficial for you to add me to your team.

Thank you for considering me as a candidate for the Research & Data Analyst position. I look forward to hearing from you and becoming a valuable part of your team.

Sincerely,

Thomas Schlaerth
